MR. OPPENHEIM'S NOVELS

MESSRS. LITTLE, BROWN & CO. announce that they have just added to their list the following important novels by

E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

Author of "A MAKER OF HISTORY"

THE BETRAYAL

Illustrated by John Cameron. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $1.50.

In none of Mr. Oppenheim's fascinating and absorbing books has he better illustrated his remarkable faculty for holding the reader's interest to the end than in "The Betrayal." The efforts of the French Secret Service to obtain important papers relating to the coast defence of England are the motif of its remarkable plot.

THE TRAITORS

Illustrated by Oscar Wilson and F. H. Townsend. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $1.50.

A brilliant and engrossing story of love and adventure and Russian political intrigue. A revolution, the recall of an exiled king, the defence of his dominion against Turkish aggression, furnish a series of exciting pictures and dramatic situations.

THE YELLOW CRAYON

Containing the Further Adventures of "Mysterious Mr. Sabin." Illustrated by Oscar Wilson. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $1.50.

The efforts of Mr. Sabin, one of Mr. Oppenheim's most fascinating characters, to free his wife from an entanglement with the Order of the Yellow Crayon, give the author one of his most complicated and absorbing plots. A number of the characters of "Mysterious Mr. Sabin" figure in this delightful work.

THE MAN AND HIS KINGDOM

Illustrated by Ch. Grunwald. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $1.50.

A brilliant and intensely dramatic tale of love, intrigue and revolution in a South American state, human and life-like in a remarkable degree.

A MILLIONAIRE OF YESTERDAY

Illustrated by John W. Kennedy. 12mo. Decorated cloth, $1.50.

The author has never written a better story. He grips the reader's attention at the start by a vivid picture of the two men in the West African bush, making a grim fight for life and fortune, and he holds it to the finish.

BY THE SAME AUTHOR

A MAKER OF HISTORY

A PRINCE OF SINNERS

ANNA THE ADVENTURESS

THE EDGE of HAZARD

GEORGE HORTON

By the author of
LIKE ANOTHER

"An American gentleman is good company for any princess that walks the surface of the globe."

THE EDGE of HAZARD

A riot of brave chances in Japan and Manchuria just before the Russo-Japanese War. The interest comes in waves of exciting incident that rise higher and higher and sweep the reader on and on. At every turn the reader's thirst for information about the lands of focused interest is satisfied. But the story is the thing. It is Fred Hardy, knight of the Twentieth Century, who rivets attention—Fred Hardy and the Princess whom he wooed and saved and won.

Illustrated by C. M. Relyea

12mo, cloth, $1.50 postpaid

THE BOBBS-MERRILL COMPANY Publishers INDIANAPOLIS

Author of The SCARLET EMPIRE

DAVID M. PARRY

Is the president of the National Association of Manufacturers and the leading spirit in the movement against trade-unionism and socialism. The Scarlet Empire is a vigorous and intensely interesting romance, treating of life in a socialistic community with an imagination worthy of Jules Verne. The New York Times in a review covering more than a page compares it with Looking Backward.

THE PATRIOTS

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY

Author of

"The Southerners," etc.

Illustrations in colors by WALTER H. EVERETT

12mo. Cloth. $1.50

The publishers were obliged to go to press with a second edition on day of publication.

Why is it that "The Patriots" is selling so well?

It is because the reading public is pleased, as their letters show.

If any dealer in the trade is at all prejudiced against Dr. Brady's books, we would ask him to kindly examine "The Patriots," and also call his attention to the following unqualified words of praise taken from the numerous letters which we have received from enthusiastic readers:

"'The Patriots' is the grandest, most thrilling historic tale I ever read."

"I think you have touched every emotion of the human heart—that you have caught and crystallized into fading colors the spirit of each army."

"The best book I ever read."

"It is certainly fine—I think one of the best war-time stories I've ever read. I usually find stories of battles tiresome, but this one did not prove so. I enjoyed it from the start to the finish, and liked it much better than 'The Southerners.'"

"It is so perfectly true to the incidents of that time, and the love story is a very sweet and tender romance."

"Better than 'The Southerners.'"

Lucy of the Stars

By FREDERICK PALMER

Author of "The Vagabond"

THE struggle, the rush, the joy, and the vigor of our life to-day live in this tale of the lives and loves of two men and two women. It is a story of the vigorous ambitions, the failures and the tremendous triumphs that come to men of this nation in politics, in business and in love, with much keen, cool and stimulating comment on our point of view, and a striking presentation of the contrasting foreign idea, told in a quick, crisp narrative by a man of action who has seen many parts of the world. Since "The Vagabond" Mr. Palmer has written no novel until this great book.

NOTES IN SEASON.

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just brought out a new edition of Louise E. Hogan's valuable little book, "How to Feed Children."

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish on the 30th inst., "Pam Decides," a sequel to "Pam," by Bettina von Hutten. Readers of the manuscript pronounce the book equal to "Pam" in every way. The illustrations are by B. Martin Justice, who did the illustrations for "Pam."

THE DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY has made arrangements to handle in this country the well-known Scotch line of Christmas booklets made by Alexander Baird & Son, of Glasgow. The embossing and color combinations of this line are exquisite and offer particular attractions to older people. Samples are now ready, and will be shown to the trade when their travellers make their rounds.

MOFFAT, YARD & Co. will bring out this spring two handsome colored pastels by Howard Chandler Christy, entitled "The Army Girl" and "The Navy Girl." They show each an American girl, typically beautiful, gracious and spirited, dressed in the coat and hat, respectively, of the army and navy. They are executed with dash and vigor and are in every respect pleasing and most unusual.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have just added to their list the following novels by E. Phillips Oppenheim: "The Betrayal," a story of the French Secret Service, illustrated by John Cameron; "The Traitors," a story of love and adventure and Russian political intrigue, illustrated by Oscar Wilson and R. H. Townsend; "The Yellow Crayon, containing the further adventures of the 'Mysterious Mr. Sabin,'" with illustrations by Oscar Wilson; "The Man and His Kingdom," a tale of love, intrigue and revolution in a South American State, with illustrations by C. Grunwald; also, "A Millionaire of Yesterday," a vivid picture of two men in the West African bush, making a grim fight for life and fortune.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will bring out at once "The Law Breakers," by Robert Grant, seven stories of love, problems and practical life of to-day, treated with the greatest power and keenest insight; the first four volumes of the Pocket Edition of the works of George Meredith—"Richard Feverel," "Diana," "Sandra Belloni" and "Vittoria"—to be completed in sixteen volumes, uniform in make-up and general appearance with the successful Biographical Edition of Stevenson published last year; "The Origin and Permanent Value of the Old Testament," by Dr. George Foster Kent, which states concisely and lucidly for layman and student, the historical reasons and positive results of the best present day biblical scholarship; also, "A History of the Reformation," by Dr. Thomas M. Lindsay, of the United Free Church College at Glasgow, a new volume in the International Theological Library. They announce a new novel by Frederick Palmer, author of "The Vagabond," an original and dramatic story of our own day and country. It is entitled "Lucy of the Stars," and tells the story of the vigorous ambitions, the failures and the tremendous triumphs that come to men of the American nation in politics, in business and in love, with much keen, cool and stimulating comments on our point of view and a striking presentation of the contrasting foreign idea.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk **, and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Barus, Carl. A continuous record of atmospheric nucleation. Wash., D. C., Smithsonian Institution, 1905. 16+226 p. f°, (Smithsonian contributions to knowledge, Hodgkins fund.) pap., gratis.

Dr. Barus describes the nucleus as a dust particle small enough to float in the air, but larger than the order of molecular size. Such a particle precipitates condensation in an atmosphere saturated with water vapor in its immediate vicinity. By far the greater number of nuclei are initially ionized, or at least carry an electric charge. The term "nucleation" is here used to denote the number of nuclei per cubic centimeter regardless of their source or special properties. Dr. Barus, who is Hazard Professor of Physics in Brown University, has been making observations for two years in Providence and at Block Island and tabulating the results. A recent work by him on the same subject was published by the Carnegie Institution.

Bennett, W: H. The Old Testament story retold for young people. New issue. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. 199 p. il. maps, 12°, cl., 60 c.

Bigelow, J: Lest we forget: Gladstone, Morley and the Confederate loan of 1863: a rectification. N. Y., De Vinne Press, (privately printed,) 1905. 65 p. 8°.

Bindloss, Harold. Alton of Somasco: a romance of the great Northwest. N. Y., F: A. Stokes Co., [1906. Mr.] c. 7+355 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

"Alton of Somasco" is the owner of a large and prosperous ranch in Northwestern Canada. His father, an Englishman, who had been disinherited by his father because he married where he loved, him and his daughter who are relatives of Alton was a boy and made a beautiful and valuable home of Somasco Ranch. Here Harry grew up a rough diamond with many admirable qualities. The story opens with the coming to Canada of Mr. Deringham and his daughter who are relatives of Alton's and are searching for him. They bring him the information that his grandfather is dead, and that he is now "Alton of Carnaby," his father's old English home. There is much thrilling adventure, also there are many attempts at foul play before the happy ending.

Bower, B. M., [B. M. Sinclair.] Chip, of the Flying U.; il. by C: M. Russell. N. Y., G: W. Dillingham Co., [1906. Ap.] c. 6-264 p. D. cl., †$1.25.

Tale of a Montana cattle ranch, and of its "cow punchers," chief of whom is Chip Bennett, reckless, lonely, and indifferent to women. The sister of the owner of the Flying U ranch comes to visit her brother. She has just been graduated from a medical school and is also past master in the art of breaking hearts. The Little Doctor has a chance to try her medical skill first on Chip's horse, then on Chip himself; and during his long convalescence she is the means of disclosing his unusual artistic ability and later of curing a hurt she herself has caused.

Briefs for the citizen: a pocket guide to the work and duties of the [New York] city government. N. Y., Bureau of City Betterment of the Citizens' Union, 1906. [Ap.] 48 p. T. cl., gratis.

Based upon a study of the city charter, the city ordinances, the sanitary code and the state laws applying to the City of New York. Its practical use is to enable the citizen to ascertain what branch of the city government is responsible for any abuse, nuisance, neglect of duty or violation of law that may come under his observation.

Brown, Gerard Baldwin. William Hogarth; [with bibliographical notes;] il. with twenty plates and a photogravure portrait. N. Y., Scribner, 1905. 10+217 p. (The makers of British art.) cl., *$1.25 net.

Bruce, W. S. Social aspects of Christianity. N. Y., Dutton, 1906. 8+407 p. 8°, cl., *$3.50 net.

Bullock, C: Jesse, ed. Selected readings in public finance. Bost., Ginn, [1906.] c. 8+671 p. fold. diagr., O. (Selections and documents in economics; ed. by W: Z. Ripley.) cl., $2.25.

The assistant professor of economics in Harvard University has tried to bring together collateral reading needed for a course in public finance, supplementing instruction usually given by lectures and text-books. Sources, new and old, have been drawn upon, and upon various controverted questions the arguments of earlier disputants have been reproduced. Includes a statistical appendix (19 p.).

Capes, Bernard. Bembo: a tale of Italy. N. Y., Dutton, 1906. [Apr.] 12°, cl., †$1.50.

Carver, T: Nixon, comp. Sociology and social progress: a handbook for students of sociology. Bost., Ginn, [1905.] c. 8+810 p. O. (Selections and documents in economics; ed. by W: Z. Ripley.) cl., $2.75.

This book is published for the purpose of gathering together the more significant of the observations upon the phenomena of society in general, and the laws of social growth and decay, found in the main outside of systematic treatises on sociology, and presenting them in convenient form for the student. The selections are classified and arranged in logical sequence so that the student may get a systematic view of the subject, through reading from a wide list of writers from Plato down to the present time. The work is designed primarily for juniors and seniors in our colleges and universities, but the general reader will find it thoroughly readable. The compiler is professor of political economy in Harvard University.

Castle, Mrs. Agnes Sweetman and Egerton. "If youth but knew"; il. by Lancelot Speed. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. 14+421 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A romance having for its background the Westphalia of which Napoleon had made his brother Jerome king. The time is about 1812. A pretty love story runs through a succession of highly romantic scenes, sometimes at King Jerome's court, sometimes in old castles and inns or out-of-the-way corners of Westphalia. Among the leading actors is an old musician, a man with a deeply tragic past who roams the world. He meets the hero in the mountains in the opening chapter and sings to him of the pleasures of youth, making it his purpose all through the story to teach him to be young, to taste the fragrance of adventure.

Champlin, J: Denison. The young folks' cyclopædia of common things. 3d ed., rev. and enl. N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1906. c. '79-'06. 932 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

The rapid advance during the past decade in everything pertaining to science and the industrial arts has rendered necessary a thorough revision of the "Cyclopædia of common things." In preparing a third edition the writer, though following the same general lines as in preceding editions, has added much new material and introduced various novel features which, he believes, will increase its value as an instructive and educational medium. While a large part of the original work has been retained, all has been thoroughly revised and brought to date. The discoveries in electricity, the automobile and the motor boat, the wonders of radium, X-rays, etc., are noted, while many entirely new articles have been added.

A little collection of consolatory literature for the sorrowing or suffering. Contains verses called "Cost," by S: Willoughby Duffield; a brief essay, "The valley of troubling," by Grace D. Goodwin, and another little paper, "Fireweed," reprinted from The Congregationalist; "The answering voice," a dialogue between the Soul and God, and "Mrs. Oliphant's last verses," dictated on June 21, 1897.

Gould, C: N. The geology and water resources of the eastern portion of the Panhandle of Texas. Wash., D. C., U. S. Office of the Superintendent of Documents, 1906. 59+5 p. O. (Department of Interior U. S. Geological Survey, water-supply and irrigation paper.) pap., 10 c.

Area covered includes twelve counties, approximating 10,800 square miles. Investigations upon which this report is based were conducted during 1903 and 1904. After examining the general topographical and geological conditions of the region, the writer describes the streams, wells, springs, etc., of these high plains, with special consideration of the water conditions of each of the twelve counties. Notwithstanding the great need of irrigation, however, he thinks it is doubtful that there will ever be sufficient water for extensive irrigation, though the present available water may be more largely utilized by improved pumping plants.

Griffin, Appleton Prentiss Clark, comp. Library of Congress. List of works on the tariffs of foreign countries: general, continental tariff union, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy, Russia, Canada. Wash., D. C., U. S. Office of the Superintendent of Documents, 1906. 42 p. sq. O. pap., 5 c.

Compiler is chief bibliographer of Library of Congress. This list shows some of the material in the Library of Congress relating to present tariff and trade conditions in Europe and their immediate antecedents. It is not in any sense exhaustive, but aims to give material most likely to be useful at the present juncture. The German fiscal system and commerce have been given special prominence in view of the tariff law enacted in 1905, which came into effect in March, 1906. The writings of German economists and publicists and other works showing German opinion and conditions have been recorded. There have been included works dealing with what is termed abroad "the American peril," or, the advance of American commerce in Europe. Some other writings on American foreign commerce are also noted. Many of the titles are freely annotated.

Dr. Higgins, formerly demonstrator of anatomy at Cambridge University (Eng.), defines scientific humaniculture as a science which, based on a positive knowledge of human aptitudes and qualities, investigates the nature and effects of the adverse conditions to life in order that means may be discovered for a progressive and harmonious development of all the human attributes. This work is largely a discussion of Fletcherism, or the applications of those theories of the physiology of nutrition discovered by Horace Fletcher some years ago during the course of his experiments on himself concerning mastication, taste and appetite. Prof. Chittenden's later experiments in nutrition are in line with Fletcherism, which aims to maintain optimum health. Several chapters are devoted to the history of medical doctrines, and in conclusion are outlined the results of systematic humaniculture in the individual and the state.
- Hill, Constance. The story of the Princess des Ursins in Spain, (Camarera-Mayor.) [New ed.] N. Y., J: Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1906. 17+256 p. il. por. D. (Crown lib.) cl., *$1.50 net.
In 1700 when Charles II. of Spain died, leaving no children, the young Duke of Anjou, grandson of Louis XIV. of France, was proclaimed his successor, under the title of Philip V. His wife, chosen by Louis XIV., was the thirteen-year-old Marie Louise of Savoy. As it was considered necessary that the young queen should be wisely guided in her new position, the person assigned to this task by the French monarch was the Princess des Ursins, a brilliant and wise Frenchwoman, widow of the Italian Prince Orsini. During all the troublous years of the wars of the Spanish Succession she held the post of Camarera-Mayor, or superintendent of the queen's household, being the real power behind the Spanish throne. The events of these fourteen years, full of honor as well as anxiety to the Princess des Ursins, are described by Miss Hill, with the subsequent dismissal and retirement of the Princess.

Lancaster, G. B. The spur; or, the bondage of Kin Severne. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. c. 5+310 p. D. cl., $1.50.

By the author of the New Zealand tales, "Sons o' men." The "spur" is a compact entered into by a rich Australian, lustful for power over men, and a young sheep shearer with undeveloped literary ability. In return for education and a chance to write, the sheep shearer, Kin Severne, agrees to forfeit himself to his benefactor for seven years if after three years he has failed to make a literary success. Because Kin speedily penetrates the real character of the other, the rich man sets about with diabolical ingenuity to frustrate all the efforts of his protégé. The scene shifts from Australia to New Zealand and twice again to Samoa. Kin's first novel is a failure, so honor holds him to his bond even when it means the loss of love and life.

Lewis, Alfred H. The throwback: a romance of the Southwest; il. with a frontispiece in col. and 3 other pictures from paintings by N. C. Wyeth. N. Y., Outing Publishing Co., 1906. c. 6+348 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A novel of love and adventure in the early days of Texas and the Southwest. The hero is Alan Gordon, a scion of an old Virginia family, who left his home in early boyhood and went west. Reverting somewhat to the primitive type of the gay Gordons of mediæval times, who loved fighting for fighting's sake, the hero became a leader among the rough and turbulent men of the Southwest. Indian fighting, daring deeds of cowboy life, a search for buried treasure, with the humor of that region made familiar by Mr. Lewis in "Wolfville," and a love motive make an interesting story.

Little, Frances. The Lady of the Decoration. N. Y., Century Co., 1906. [Ap.] c. 4+235 p. D. cl., $1.

"The Lady of the Decoration" is a charming little Kentucky widow, who goes to Japan to teach a Japanese mission school, chiefly to forget the tragedy of her married life, and partly to escape a man she knows has loved her many years, but to whom she is not yet ready to give herself. She has earned her title of "Lady of the Decoration" from the little pupils of her school, who think a tiny watch she wears is a decoration from the emperor. She has many novel experiences in Japan, and finally comes into her own again, with "Jack's" dramatic arrival on the scene.

Lorimer, G. Horace. The false gods. N. Y., Appleton, 1906. [Ap.] c. 5+91 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

A reporter from the Boston Banner comes to New York to write up a "good story" for his paper, of which a Mrs. Athelstone, who claims to be a reincarnation of Madame Blavatsky, the Theosophist, is to be the heroine. He uses great ingenuity in reaching Mrs. Athelstone, who refuses to see reporters. He meets her surrounded by mummies and Egyptian statues of great antiquity, an air of mystery over everything. How his great "find" works out is left to the reader to discover.

McConnell, Francis J. The diviner immanence. N. Y., Eaton & Mains, [1906.] c. 4-159 p. D. cl., $75 c. net.

Deals with some popular misunderstandings of the doctrine of divine immanence, i.e., the essential presence of God in all the universe and yet distinct from it. The author does not disparage the current doctrine, but points "to that spiritual immanence for which the divine immanence as ordinarily understood is the pre-condition."

MacFall, Haldane. Whistler: butterfly, wasp, wit, master of the arts, enigma. N. Y., J. W. Luce & Co., 1906. c. 4-76 il. por. nar. D. (Spirit of the age ser.) bds., $75 c. net.

The first volume of a new biographical series. The collection will have for its subjects men and women, "whose work and influence, in whatever field of literature or art was their chosen one, may be said to faintly reflect the spirit or tendencies of cultivated thought at the present time." The treatment is unconventional, the chief aim being to present to the readers "a living, marching personality breathing with the individuality characteristic of the person." The second volume of the series will be found on record under Simpson, Eve B.

Mitchell, Silas Weir, M.D. A diplomatic adventure. N. Y., Century Co., 1906. [Ap.] c. 2+166 p. S. cl., $1.

The story has its scene in Paris, and is related by a secretary to the American legation in France during the summer of 1862. The plot is founded upon the assumed incident of a stolen dispatch finding its way into the hands of the American minister to France during the stormy time when the Emperor was endeavoring to induce England to acknowledge the Confederate states as a nation. A pretty woman seeking refuge in a stranger's cab, starts the story, and is the cause of three possible duels. American and French characters take part in the story which is full of fun, while it has its serious side.

By the professor of philosophy in the University of Berlin. His aim is to give a systematic account of the nature, function, organization and historical development of German universities. Accordingly, after an introductory chapter in which he describes the general character of the German university and contrasts it with French and English types, Prof. Paulsen divides his subject into five books. Bk. 1 traces the historical development of the German universities from the Middle Ages to the present time; bk. 2 discusses the organization of the university, its legal status, its relation to state, society and the church; bk. 3 is devoted to university teachers and methods of instruction; bk. 4 has to do with students and academic study, discussing the elective and the compulsory systems, vacations, societies, etc.; while bk. 5 treats of the different faculties, medicine, law, theology and philosophy. Appended is a list of German universities, an index and a five-page bibliography of German works. Prof. Thilly, who contributes an introduction, is professor of psychology in Princeton.

A series of letters revealing the intense love of a refined, cultured woman for a Catholic priest. The love is mutual, but for three years the priest is faithful to his vows, although the woman uses many intelligent and seemingly convincing arguments to weaken his position. Finally they enter into a secret marriage. But after a brief happiness, the priest's conscience makes him miserable; the result is tragedy.

The American Board of Foreign Missions was first organized through Samuel J. Mills, who was born Apr. 21, 1783, in Litchfield, Ct. He with several college friends, while at Williams College, took refuge from a thunderstorm under a haystack, and here he evolved the thought of sending missionaries to foreign nations, especially to Africa. His own mission work, which was very great, found its field in the large cities of the United States. He and his early friends who all became famous in church work were known as "the men of the haystack." Bibliography (11 p.).

Rothschild, Alonzo. Lincoln, master of men: a study in character. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 6+531 p. pors. O. cl., **$3 net.

This study of Lincoln's character differs from the work of his other biographers by aiming to concentrate the reader's attention on the one element of his personality, which continually grows in significance as time passes. This is his mastery over different types of men, as well as over himself. The eight chapters take up successively his physical, intellectual, and early political prowess, and his relations with Douglas, Seward, Chase, Stanton, Fremont, and McClellan. A list of the books cited covers 12 pages. The notes are very full.

Sabine, Wallace Clement. A student's manual of a laboratory course in physical measurements. Rev. ed. Bost., Ginn, [1906.] c. 6+97 p. diagrs., O. cl., $1.25.

Author professor of physics in Harvard University. The first edition of this manual was published in 1893. Since then the course for which it was intended has undergone many changes. The present edition embodies these changes. This course, as given in Harvard University, is accompanied by a series of illustrated lectures to the class as a whole, one each week, and one hour a week of lectures, recitation, and problem work to the class in small sections. A knowledge of algebra and plane geometry, and a slight acquaintance with the notation of trigonometry are necessary. It should properly be preceded also by a more elementary course in physics, either by laboratory or text-book, preferably the former.

Willson, Rob. Wheeler. Laboratory astronomy. Bost., Ginn, [1906.] c. '00, '05. 9+189 p. il. O. cl., $1.25.

The author, who is professor in astronomy at Harvard, here offers, as the result of his experience in teaching, an outline of a course in astronomy in which the fundamental principles are developed by laboratory methods. A beginning is made with the simplest observations, arranged in logical order and carried so far as to explain the more important celestial motions. Apparatus is described which may be supplied to each pupil at small expense and used for home observation, and the use of the celestial globe is advocated as the most valuable aid in acquiring a thorough knowledge of the phenomena depending on the diurnal motion. For college students or pupils in the last years of the high school, to be used in connection with any good text-book of elementary astronomy.

Wister, Owen. Lady Baltimore; il. by Vernon Howe Bailey and Lester Ralph. N. Y., Macmillan, 1906. c. 406 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A leisurely narrative of the doings of a few of the inhabitants of Kings Port, an old city of South Carolina. As the time is the present and the city has just been given a colored Custom House Collector by a Republican President, Kings Port evidently stands for Charleston. A young man who comes from New York to look up information about his ancestors is the teller of the story. He brings letters which take him into the exclusive, unreconstructed, social set of the aristocratic old city. A love story is the basis of the narrative, but it embraces many other things besides the love story—witty characterizations of persons and things now fast passing away, discussions of the negro as a social problem, etc. "Lady Baltimore" is a rich cake, made specially for weddings.

Wright, Mary Tappan. The tower: a novel. N. Y., Scribner, 1906. c. 4+422 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A story of the Faculty side of an American small college community. The president, older professors, younger instructors and their wives and families are described to the life. Several romances help to evolve the plot. The chief heroine is thirty-eight, the president's daughter who eighteen years before had seen her romance pass her by. The man she loved returns to do unselfish work among old friends, plays a leading part in bringing about the happiness of several couples and also consummates his own.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 14, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE STRENGTHENING OF COPYRIGHT PROTECTION.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the substantial progress made in drafting a new copyright code for the consideration of Congress, it is gratifying to record that several recent decisions, in this country and elsewhere, also tend to strengthen copyright protection and broaden the application of the principle of copyright.

The most important of these, at least in America, is that embodied in the decision of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, delivered by Judge Wright, reversing the decision of Judge Kohlsaat in the United Dictionary Company's case, as recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of December 23, 1905. Judge Kohlsaat's decision threatened the most serious effect upon a large class of American copyrights, those on works of sufficient importance to be reprinted in England, in cases where, by negligence or otherwise, no notice of American copyright had been printed on the English editions. In the course of the opinion Judge Wright says: "It was never intended that the notice of copyright in this country should be inserted in foreign copyright editions of the same book not designed for sale in the United States." This is a pithy statement denying the necessity of ex-territorial notice, and will be a relief to many publishers and authors whose rights were put in jeopardy under the Kohlsaat decision. While an appeal to the Supreme Court is possible, there is good reason to believe that the doctrine above enunciated will be sustained.

As the United States is not a party to the convention of Berne the important Canadian decision, recorded in our last issue, does not affect copyright relations in this country. But it is sweepingly comprehensive elsewhere, in its view that the English colonies as parts of the British empire are subject to the provisions of the Berne convention, notwithstanding the provisions of local laws.

The recent decision in Germany, also reported in last week's issue, goes very far in supporting the principle that a copyright proprietor is entitled to control the price of the copyrighted work throughout its trade relations—the principle at issue in this country in the Macy cases. The German case was argued as a matter of copyright, of trade usage and of unfair competition, and the decision strengthens morally, though it has no legal bearing in this country, the contention of the American Publishers' Association and allied interests against Macy's and other undersellers.

If the year 1906 should also witness the passage of the revised copyright code in this country, it would be the most important year in the history of copyright since the adoption of the Berne convention.

THE collapse of the Consolidated Retail Booksellers is new evidence of the difficulty of disregarding the results of experience in the book trade as elsewhere. Mr. Nichols's original scheme presupposed that the business of the jobber in this country afforded so large a margin of profit and was so ill organized that a co-operative plan would furnish profit and convenience alike to the retail booksellers co-operating. As a matter of fact, the jobbing business in this country has been limited by the narrow margin of profit, and the difficulties of distribution have arisen rather from the magnitude of the country than from any lack of ability in the few houses which still do a jobbing business. The retail houses which had combined in this enterprise found the results disappointing, with the effect that the concern practically abandoned the jobbing business and made ventures in the publishing domain. The first success encouraged this new development, but the new people had no greater share of infallibility than experienced publishers, and the end has already come. It is to be hoped that the American Booksellers' Association, which was organized largely in connection with the jobbing scheme, may not be involved in the demise of the Consolidated Retail Booksellers' organization.

G. & C. MERRIAM COMPANY SCORES IN ITS SUIT AGAINST OGILVIE.

FOLLOWING is the decision rendered April 10 by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit on the appeal from the Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois in the suit brought by G. & C. Merriam Company against the United Dictionary Company to restrain infringement of copyright in their "Webster's High School Dictionary":

This is an appeal from a final decree of the United States Circuit Court for the Northern District of Illinois, dismissing the bill of complaint of the appellant for want of equity, the case having been heard upon the pleadings and an agreed statement of facts.

The bill was filed to restrain infringement of copyright in the book entitled "Webster's High School Dictionary." The facts briefly stated are as follows:

Appellant, before the publication in this or any foreign country, was the owner of the literary property in and the right to copyright the book "Webster's High School Dictionary," and on August 9, 1892, published and copyrighted the same simultaneously in Great Britain and the United States. Thereafter appellant continued to publish and sell this book in the United States, complying with all the requirements of the statutes and printing the statutory notice of copyright in every copy published or sold in this country. The book under the name "Webster's Brief International Dictionary" was subsequently published commercially in England under an agreement between appellant and George Bell & Sons entered into on July 18, 1894. This contract expressly provides that George Bell & Sons will not either directly or indirectly sell in or import the book into the United States or sell to others for the purpose of importation, and George Bell & Sons agree to use all reasonable means to prevent such importation by others. Under this contract the book has been published and sold in England. The copies so published and sold in England by George Bell & Sons have not borne the notice of the American copyright, but have been in full compliance with all the provisions of the English copyright law, and appellant has in England a valid and subsisting copyright in the book. No copies of the English book have ever been imported into or sold in the United States either by appellant or George Bell & Sons, or any one acting for or on behalf of either. The appellee, United Dictionary Company, is an Illinois corporation organized June, 1904, with a capital stock of fifteen hundred dollars. George W. Ogilvie, who was the organizer of defendant corporation, in January, 1905, caused a newsdealer in Chicago to cable to England and procure for him a copy of "Webster's Brief International Dictionary." This book was received in due course and turned over to Ogilvie. This and another copy subsequently imported by Ogilvie are the only copies of "Webster's Brief International Dictionary," as far as the record shows, that ever came into this country. Upon receipt of the first copy, the appellee, United Dictionary Company, of which Ogilvie is director and principal stockholder, had the pages of "Webster's Brief International Dictionary" photographed and reproduced verbatim and had plates made which completely reproduced that book and which also reproduced "Webster's High School Dictionary" except the first three and the last thirty-four pages, the remainder of the two books being identical. This reproduction was with full knowledge of the American copyright and of the identity of the books.

It is expressly stipulated that "said Ogilvie obtained said copy of said 'Webster's Brief International Dictionary,' not for the purpose of selling said individual copy, but for the purpose and intent of having the United Dictionary Company reprint and republish said book without the consent of either complainant or George Bell & Sons."

Appellee advertised the intended publication of its book in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY and has circulated pamphlets and printed matter in which this announcement is made. The book has not yet been published, but will be unless its publication is restrained. And if published will constitute an infringement of appellant's copyright in the book "Webster's High School Dictionary," if that copyright be valid.

The question chiefly argued in this court is, whether the failure, under the circumstances of this case, to insert in the books published in England, the copyright notice required by the United States copyright law, works a forfeiture of the United States copyright, notwithstanding an exact and literal compliance with the United States statute in regard to all books published or circulated by or with the consent of appellant in the United States.

Wright, District Judge, delivered the opinion of the court:

Appellant's copyright of "Webster's High School Dictionary" was in strict conformity to law, and is unassailable in the United States unless the publication in Great Britain omitting notice of copyright as required by section 4962, Revised Statutes, deprives it of the right to maintain an action for infringement.

Appellee imported two copies of the British publication of the book for its use; that is, to reprint and republish it in this country for sale. The importation and publication is sought to be justified by appellee because the publication in England was printed from type set or plates made within the limits of the United States, and more particularly appellee's insistence is that the publication is justified because of the failure of appellant to insert in the books published in England the copyright notice required by the United States copyright law.

In support of these contentions it is argued that the only prohibition contained in the law is against the importation of books not made from plates from type set in the United States during the life of the copyright, and that the books in question having been made from plates from type set in the United States, there exists no law against the importation of them, and having been lawfully imported, and being thus properly in the United States, and containing no notice therein of a United States copyright they were legally subject to be produced by reprint or publication by any person, notwithstanding the copyright of the United States edition of the book.

The prohibition against importation found in Section 4956, Revised Statutes, we think was not intended to do more than its plain terms import, considered with the context of the whole section. Manifestly the object of that prohibition is to prevent from being done abroad, the work of producing copyright books designed for sale in the United States. The prohibition of that section has no application to the facts in this sale in the United States. Appellant had already provided another edition of the book for sale in the United States by obtaining copyright according to law and which was duly protected thereby. However, in the ultimate view we entertain of the question involved, we do not consider the absence of a specific prohibition in the statute against the importation of a book in the situation of appellant's English publication, as of controlling effect. The vital question is, whether protection can be afforded against infringement of the copyright appellant obtained from the United States, or whether the facts stated constitute an infringement.

If the importations of the British book were in large numbers designed for sale in the United States in competition with the domestic copyright, then the question would be not only of illegal importation, but of infringement of the domestic copyright, as well as the same now is of infringement by reproducing in this country the foreign publication.

It has been argued with force that because Section 4956, Revised Statutes, provides that no person shall be entitled to a copyright unless he shall, on or before the day of publication in this or any foreign country, deliver to the Librarian of Congress a printed copy of the title of the book, and also two copies of the book not later than the day of publication thereof in this or any foreign country, that therefore the publication of the book being, as contended, thereby authorized, the provision in Section 4963 for the insertion of the copyright notice in the several copies of every edition published, has reference to the several copies of every edition wherever published, in this or any foreign country.

Appellant did comply with these requirements in obtaining its domestic copyright. The law does not require this to be done in both countries, the requirement being that the copies be delivered before or on the day of publication in this or any foreign country. Appellant having fulfilled this requirement before the day of publication in this country, it had done all the law demanded in this regard. Other than this the provisions of this section relative to the deposit of copies of a publication in a foreign country, the demand for copies to be delivered to the librarian is but supplementary to the provisions of Section 4953, and should be limited to the purposes of that section, which enables authors or proprietors of a book in a foreign language to obtain copyright in this country. No provision is made in that section for a case like the one we are considering. The only reference in that section to a case like this is contained in the proviso: "That this act shall only apply to a citizen or subject of a foreign state or nation, when such foreign state or nation permits to citizens of the United States of America the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own citizens." By other legislation it is provided that existence of the conditions described in the proviso shall be determined by the President of the United States by proclamation from time to time, as the purposes of the law may require.

So, in the case of a domestic owner of a literary production, which is also of domestic origin and in our own language, which is the case of appellant, we find no special provision in the law for copyright abroad, but do find, in the proviso quoted, that such a case has been anticipated by legislative recognition or sanction, confirmed by executive proclamation, thus pointing out the way, if not creating the right, to citizens of the United States to obtain from foreign nations copyright benefits. Congress did not assume to give to citizens of this country the right to a foreign copyright, but doubtless did all they could do, encouraged foreign nations, who alone could grant the benefits, to do so, and in legal effect authorized citizens of this country to seek copyright benefits in foreign countries upon the conditions provided for them.

Under these circumstances appellant obtained from Great Britain a copyright of the book in question and was thus induced to publish it in England, which enabled appellee to obtain a copy for its use. So far as appears, the copyright granted by the English government was in strict conformity to the laws of that nation. Indeed, if at all, it had to be as prescribed by the law of England, for Congress had no authority to define the conditions upon which a copyright might be granted by a foreign nation. The Congress by their legislation did not assume such authority, but merely as an act of amity provided that when a foreign state or nation permits to citizens of the United States the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own citizens, then a citizen or subject of such foreign state or nation should have the privileges relative to copyright as conferred by law upon citizens of this country. The law of England does permit to citizens of this country the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as to its own subjects, as evidenced by the proclamation of the President of the United States.

It is true that the book so copyrighted and published in the foreign country contains no notice that a copyright exists in the United States. The law of England does not require that it should contain such a notice of its own copyright. The English copyright is valid in that country. It was obtained by appellant, a citizen of the United States, with both the legislative and executive invitation and sanction of its own country. Shall it now be held by the courts of the United States that because of such invitation and sanction appellant was induced to and did obtain a valid copyright in a foreign nation, it thereby invalidated the one it had obtained in its own country. We do not believe the Congress intended to have their enactments interpreted to an absurdity such as that would be. It was never intended that the notice of copyright in this country should be inserted in foreign copyright editions of the same book not designed for sale in the United States. In the case of England, if such conditions were held to have been imposed, the effect would be to burden citizens of the United States with conditions that nation had not cast on its own subjects, and this would be inconsistent with the terms of the proviso of the statute hereinbefore quoted, by means of which these reciprocal rights were effected, to the purpose that if foreign nations should permit citizens of the United States the benefit of copyright on substantially the same basis as its own citizens, then the latter should have like benefits in this country.

If appellant had inserted a notice of the American copyright in the English editions of the book, would it have been true? It is plain that it would not. There can be no just pretense that the identical matter of the English edition had ever been submitted to the forms of law essential to a copyright in the United States. The title and the first three and last thirty-four pages of the English edition were different from the domestic edition. This being true, is it not evident that to have inserted such a notice would have been a violation of Section 4963, Revised Statutes, subjecting the offender to a penalty of $100? It is not to be imagined the law demanded a violation of itself.

An infringement may result in the wrongful use of a part as well as the whole of a publication protected by copyright. Appellant rightfully published its book in England in conformity to the laws of that country, with the approval of the law of its own sovereignty, at the same time having a copyright in the United States entitled to the protection of its laws from illegal infringement. The publication by appellee of the book imported from England would be an infringement of appellant's copyright, and should be enjoined.

The decree of the Circuit Court is reversed and the cause remanded for further proceedings not inconsistent with the views herein expressed.

BOOK TRADE TERMS.

WILLIAM JAGGARD, the Liverpool bookseller, asks in Notes and Queries if any reader can point to earlier usage of any of the following terms than the dates given: "Out of Print," 1734; "Small Paper," "Large Paper," "India Paper," "Fine Paper," 1790; "Pass the Press," 1690; "Literary Piracy," 1734; "Proofs," 1615; "Publish in Print," 1594; "Reprinted," 1734; "Secondhand Books," 1622; "Stereotype," 1827; "Vignette," 1612.

POSTAL CONGRESS AT ROME.

KING VICTOR EMMANUEL and Queen Helena on the 7th inst. inaugurated the International Postal Congress in the Capitol at Rome. Delegates were present from all parts of the world, including Abyssinia and China, which were not represented at the former conferences.

The inaugural address was delivered by Signor Baccelli, the Minister of Posts and Telegraphs, who recalled the origin of the Universal Postal Union, referred to the progress made, dwelt upon the fruitful results achieved, and expressed the hope that the deliberations of the present congress would be as beneficial as those of the former congresses.

The United States is represented at the congress by Captain Brooks, Superintendent of Foreign Mails in the United States Post Office Department, and Edward Rosewater, of Omaha.

AMERICAN PUBLISHERS' COPYRIGHT LEAGUE—ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting of the American Publishers' Copyright League was held on Friday, the 6th inst., at the rooms of the Aldine Association, the president, Mr. W. W. Appleton, being in the chair.

The secretary, Mr. George Haven Putnam, presented, on behalf of the Executive Committee, a condensed report of the matters with which the Executive Committee had been concerned during the preceding twelve months.

No bills relating to copyright had come into enactment during the year. The bill planned to secure a more adequate measure of protection for the works of continental writers had become law in March, 1905. Its enactment had been reported at the previous annual meeting. The secretary explained that this act had not proved satisfactory in its working, the difficulty being due to an interpolation made at the time of its final consideration in the Senate by a senator who had not given earlier attention to the matter, and who had not been present at the meetings of the Committee on Patents. This amendment so interpolated placed upon the foreign authors the requirement for having printed on each copy of their work as issued in the original edition a reservation of American copyright in the following words:

Published ———, 190—. Privilege of copyright in the United States reserved under the act approved March, 1905, by ———.

The foreign authors and their representatives, the Continental publishers, had been advised by their counsel that under the wording of this law it was necessary to have this notice inserted in English. It is not certain, until the matter has been passed upon by the courts that this was the intention of the lawmakers, or that it constitutes the actual purport of the requirement. Under this understanding, however, the authors of the Continent have found it very difficult to induce their publishers to take pains to print in the copies of the original edition this long notice in English, and in the absence of such notice they are in no better position to secure the advantage of the ad interim term of copyright, twelve months, within which to make their arrangements for an authorized American edition, than had been the case prior to March, 1905.

These authors are of opinion, therefore, that they have not been fairly treated in the bill, which had given promise of an advantage or a protection that it is very difficult to secure. The secretary has received from Leipzig, from Rome, and from Paris protests on the part of the authors of the three countries in question, these protests making, naturally enough, reference to the fact that the authors of the United States are securing in France, Germany and Italy precisely the same privileges that are accorded to the Continental authors.

The difficulty with this bill constituted only another instance of the heedlessness with which legislators treat a technical subject like copyright without taking the pains, in the first place, to secure some adequate information.

The Executive Committee has had occasion to take action from time to time through the year to head off legislation that was inimical to copyright, and the purpose of which had not been fully understood by the members of the House and the Senate Committees.

The most important work of the year had, however, been in connection with the conferences that have been called for the codification and revision of the copyright statute. At the time of the enactment in March of the so-called Continental amendment, the chairman of the Senate Committee on Patents and the chairman of the House Committee on Patents had given notice to the secretary of this League and to the Librarian of Congress that it was in their judgment inadvisable to give any further consideration to amendments to the copyright law. The committees did not want to be troubled any further with what they called "piece meal legislation."

The Register of Copyright and the Attorney General had on their part had occasion more than once during the past few years to call attention to the difficulty of the administration of the existing statute.

Since the passage of the law of 1891, twelve amendments had been enacted, and a large number of other amendments, some desirable in themselves and some adverse to the principles of copyright, had been considered. There are at this time still on the calendar six bills having to do with copyright.

The Librarian had, in his annual reports, called attention to the increasing difficulty of the administration of the law, and had suggested that the time had come for a complete revision. At the instance of the Librarian of Congress and of the secretary of the League, President Roosevelt had inserted in his latest message to Congress a paragraph calling attention to the unsatisfactory condition of the copyright statute and recommending that some action should be taken for its revision. As a result of these several suggestions, the chairman of the Senate Committee on Patents had addressed a formal request to the Librarian of Congress to take counsel with the different bodies and associations interested in copyright, or who claimed the right to be heard in regard to copyright, and to endeavor to secure from these associations a consensus of opinion as to the provisions of a new law, and on the basis of such consensus of opinion, and with the aid of such legal advice as was available, to frame an act for the consideration of Congress.

As a result of this suggestion, the Librarian had extended an invitation to some twenty associations to send representatives to a conference for the consideration of the revision of the copyright statute. This conference was held in New York in June, 1905. A second meeting was held in New York in October, and a third was held in Washington in March.

At these several conferences suggestions were received from representatives of all the interests concerned, and after thorough discussion the suggestions that appeared to be impossible or incongruous (a very considerable number) were gradually eliminated. Several preliminary drafts presenting provisions for a proposed bill had been put into print, and a third draft, which represented the substantial consensus of opinion arrived at at the third conference, was at this time being worked over by the legal advisers whose aid the librarian had been able to secure. These advisers comprised Mr. Stuart, of Baltimore, chairman of the committee appointed for the purpose by the American Bar Association; Mr. Fuller, of New York, chairman of the committee appointed for the purpose by the Bar Association of the State of New York; Mr. Olin, counsel of our Publishers' League, and Mr. Elder, of Boston, representing more particularly the views of the New England publishers and authors.

It was the hope of the Librarian that it would be possible to get this draft completed in time to place a bill on the calendar before the close of the spring session of Congress, with the view of securing action in the matter with the beginning of the winter session of the present year.

It was the advice of the chairmen of the two Congressional Committees that we should be more likely to secure favorable attention at the next session of Congress if we could have the bill placed on the calendar this spring.

Mr. Putnam then explained the principal changes proposed in the revision of the statute, which being still in an incomplete state is not yet matter for publication.

The report of the treasurer was read, showing that there was in the treasury a balance adequate for the present work of the League. The secretary reported that the membership of the League had increased during the past year, as the members of the publishing trade had come to understand that they all had a business interest in maintaining and in developing the copyright system of the country.

The secretary presented the invitation extended to the members of the Publishers' Copyright League, and also to the members of the Publishers' Association, by the book-trade association of Italy to attend the convention that was to be held in Milan from June 5th to June 10th of the International Publishers' Association. He reported that he was expecting himself to be present at Milan, and that he hoped it would prove convenient for other representatives of the publishing interests of the United States to be present with him.

The members of the present Executive Committee were elected for another year, with the exception of Mr. Albert Smith, representing the art publishers, who had retired by reason of illness. Authority was given to the Executive Committee to add to its number some representative to be suggested by the group of art publishers.

The meeting then adjourned.

RECEIVER FOR THE CONSOLIDATED RETAIL BOOKSELLERS.

AN involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed against the Consolidated Retail Booksellers, a New Jersey corporation, at 30 East Twenty-first Street, New York City, by the attorneys for Louis Satenstein, proprietor of the American Book Bindery, a creditor for $662. Judge Holt, of the United States District Court, appointed Merrill E. Gates, Jr., receiver, with a bond of $4000. The liabilities are roughly estimated at $30,000, $10,000 of which is secured, and the assets at between $5000 and $6000, but no definite financial statement can be made until an inventory is taken.

The Consolidated Retail Booksellers' Association was originally incorporated as a mutual co-operative corporation at Trenton, N. J., on January 13, 1900. Its authorized capital stock was $1,000,000, of which $250,000 was preferred and $750,000 common. According to the first annual statement of the corporation, made in February, 1903, $68,600 of the preferred had at that time been "firmly subscribed for by wholesale and retail booksellers," and $100,000 had been "subscribed for or underwritten by successful business men and capitalists of New York and vicinity, under an agreement by the terms of which the credit of each of these gentlemen is pledged to the amount of his subscription, the organization committee having reserved the right to sell a part of the stock so underwritten to such publishers and booksellers as may desire financially and actively to join as co-operative members. At the expiration of the limited time," to quote the statement verbatim, "the balance of unsold underwritten stock will be divided pro rata among the underwriters in proportion to the amount each has subscribed, and will be paid for in cash at its par value by the subscribing underwriters; $60,000 has been sold to outside subscribers at par value; $21,400 still remains in the treasury, (which amount will be offered in small blocks to retail book merchants,) making a total of $250,000, and thus disposing of the preferred stock."

The corporation after it began business in 1902 took over and published the Book Lover and the Home Magazine, which have since been suspended, and the Book and News Dealer, which is still published by the concern, and which now forms a principal asset.

The corporation originally began business as a general jobber and distributor of books through the medium of its local distributing agents, who were also stockholders. The intention was that the main office in New York City was to ship to its distributing agents in the prominent cities and towns collectively the books ordered of each of the publishers, and the distributors in turn were to wholesale to other local dealers at such quantity and jobbing discounts as might be established by the individual publishers for the purpose of regulating the sale. It was proposed, by the development of the plans of the Consolidated Retail Booksellers, to place the output of the publisher as much within the reach of the booksellers at distant and outlying points as it is within the reach of those at the publishing centres, and thereby enable a saving of time and the expense of shipping by mail or express at a long distance, which, it was argued, absorbs a large share of sales profit after the books leave the hands of the publisher and before they reach the retail bookseller.

Owing to the lack of co-operation certain publishers, who did not favor the creation of any new agency between them and their constituency, and for other reasons, the jobbing department of the corporation did not meet the expectations, and, while it was not altogether abandoned, its directors turned their attention to the development of a publishing business. Its first venture in this direction was so successful that it undertook several other books that shared more or less the fate of other publishing ventures, and from this direction the enterprise is now threatened. The original officers of the corporation were J. W. Nichols, president; F. F. Hansell, vice-president; William Rickey, secretary, and George E. Green, treasurer, who two years ago was succeeded by Charles J. Mulier. Among the directors were some of the leading booksellers of the country.

The canvass for stockholders for the Consolidated Retail Booksellers led directly to the formation of the American Booksellers' Association in 1901, and for some time the two organizations were confused in the minds of the trade without benefit to either.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD COMPANY MAY USE THE NAME LOTHROP.

SUITS have been pending for about a year to restrain the firm of Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company and a number of booksellers from using the name of Lothrop or that imprint upon publications or books sold by them; also, to have Fred H. Williams, of the law firm of Williams & Copeland, and Warren F. Gregory, assignees under an assignment made by the Lothrop Publishing Company on February 13, 1904, for the benefit of its creditors, required to deliver up to the latter its books of accounts and the records of its stockholders and directors, upon the ground that these books did not pass by the assignment to them.

Williams and Gregory as assignees sold the property of the Lothrop Publishing Company to a representative of Lee & Shepard, which on February 13, 1904, was incorporated as the Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company. For commercial reasons the newly incorporated firm abandoned the use of the imprints "Lothrop Publishing Company" and "Lee & Shepard," before these suits were heard of, as it seemed best to settle upon the corporation name at once, and ever since last summer the imprint on each plate for the title-page has been changed as the book came up for printing. As the suit regarding the imprint was also directed against nearly all the leading booksellers of the country, whom it was sought to enjoin from selling books published by the Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company with the imprint of "Lothrop Publishing Company," the firm at once guaranteed immunity to these booksellers, and so there was no interruption to their business. Chief Justice Knowlton writing the opinion, the Supreme Court, on April 4, in dismissing these suits, held that the assignees, by the form of the conveyance of the property made by the Lothrop Publishing Company to them under the assignment for creditors, could and did give to Baker, who bought the business and good will for Lee & Shepard, a right to use the plaintiff's name as a designation of the publications that had previously borne its imprint and to advertise as the plaintiff's successor in the business bought. The court says that the plaintiff's bill showed no limitation or preservation upon the right of the purchaser to use its name or imprint, and the defendant company was within its legal rights. To quote from Judge Knowlton's opinion: "The good will of this extensive publishing business, especially in connection with the publication of particular books and the rights to publish, which the plaintiff owned, was an important part of the assets transferred to the assignees, and this good will passed by the conveyance. This would have been so if there had been no special provision authorizing the assignees to conduct the business themselves, in the execution of their trust, and it included the right to trademarks and trade names used in the business."

The court further holds that the Lothrop Publishing Company did not by its assignment for the benefit of its creditors transfer its franchise as a corporation, and says: "The plaintiff may have the same right to the use of its corporate name in a business to be established hereafter that an individual would have to use his own name after making such an assignment for the benefit of his creditors, but that will not include a right to use the name to the detriment of a particular business whose good will has been sold by the assignees."

With respect to the suit against the assignees for the books, the court holds that the property in them passed by the assignment to the assignees, and it did not appear that they were finally through with them yet.

The suit brought by Edmund H. Pennell and another to restrain Harriet M. Lothrop, of Concord, ("Margaret Sidney," the author of the famous "Pepper" books,) from permitting the Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company publishing her juvenile books was also dismissed by the same court.

The plaintiffs claimed that the publication of her books by the Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company was a violation of a contract she made with the plaintiffs to give them the exclusive right to publish her books through the Lothrop Publishing Company, which, though it made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors on February 13, 1904, was alleged to be ready and willing to take up their publication.

The bill was dismissed upon the ground that the Lothrop Publishing Company was improperly joined as a plaintiff, not having any enforceable rights in the contract of publication she made with Pennell, Harry E. Morrell and Frank M. Hoyt, the other plaintiffs.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

THE BOOKSELLERS' LEAGUE.

THE April dinner of the Booksellers' League was given at the Aldine Association, 111 Fifth Avenue, on the evening of April 11. There were present about fifty persons and W. G. Preston presided. After an enjoyable dinner Mr. Preston, the newly-elected president, in a brief speech thanked the League for the honor it had conferred upon him, and urged the members not only to persevere in cultivating the fraternal relations between its members, but also more assiduously to further the interests of their respective callings by giving more frequent public testimony as to their experiences in their various callings, in discussing methods, etc. He then introduced Mr. Roland Burke Hennessy, dramatic critic of the New York Daily News and managing editor of The Stage, who spoke pleasantly of his experiences as a newspaper critic. Mr. Hennessy was followed by E. B. Hackett, who dwelt upon the optimism of the book-trade, and by R. E. Sherwood, who touched upon some of the trials that beset a bookseller. John C. Saul, of Morang & Co., of Toronto, when called upon for a few remarks, spoke of the conditions of the book-trade in Canada, taking a very hopeful view of its development within the next decade.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM ROOT BLISS, author of "Quaint Nantucket," "September Days on Nantucket," "Side Glimpses from the Colonial Meeting House," etc., died at Short Hills, N. J., April 9, aged eighty-one. Mr. Bliss had been connected with the Equitable Life Assurance Society for nearly thirty years, and previously with the American Bank Note Company.

FRANCIS PHARCELLUS CHURCH, for many years an editorial writer for the New York Sun, died on April 12, at his home, 46 East Thirtieth Street, New York. Mr. Church was born in Rochester, N. Y., on February 22, 1839. As a boy he studied in Charles Anthon's Latin School in New York City, and he was graduated with honors from Columbia College in 1859. He studied in the office of Judge Hooper C. Van Vorst, but put aside the law to take up literary work. He was the editor of the old Galaxy Magazine, and was associated for a time with his brother, Colonel William Conant Church, in the management of the Army and Navy Journal and the Internal Revenue Record.

EDWARD BLOCH, well known as the founder of the Bloch Publishing Company, the leading publishing house of Jewish books in this country, died March 22, in Avondale, Cincinnati, O. Mr. Bloch was born, in 1829, in Grafenried, Bohemia, a small village on the Bavarian frontier, and came to this country in 1845, joining his brother-in-law, the late Isaac M. Wise, in Albany, N. Y. He went to Cincinnati in 1853 and associated himself with Rabbi Wise in the publication of the Israelite. Out of this grew the Jewish publishing house which has put out, probably, more Jewish books and periodicals than all the other Jewish publishing firms in the United States combined. The great service rendered by the house was undoubtedly in the publication of the series of prayer books known as the "Minhag America," compiled, edited, translated into English, and in large part written by Rabbi Wise. The "Minhag America" is the ritual upon which American Judaism was based. Mr. Bloch was also associated with the publication of the Deborah, and for many years issued the Sabbath Visitor, a Jewish children's paper, whose first editor was the late Rev. Dr. Max Lilienthal. Edward Bloch was also the inventor and the first manufacturer of printed flags in the United States, an industry that has now grown to enormous proportions. The flag manufacturing department of the business was merged into the American Flag Co., of New York, in 1894, in which Mr. Bloch held a large interest. Mr. Bloch retired from active business in 1901, when the main office of the Bloch Publishing Co. was removed to New York City, with his son, Charles E. Bloch, as proprietor.

PROFESSOR NATHANIEL SOUTHGATE SHALER, the eminent geologist, died at Cambridge, Mass., on April 10. Professor Shaler was born on February 20, 1841, at Newport, Ky., and was graduated from the Lawrence Scientific School at Harvard, where he had the advantage of receiving instruction from Louis Agassiz. During the War between the States, 1861-1865, he served in the Federal army, being attached to a volunteer regiment. In 1864 he was appointed an assistant in palæontology in the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard, and a year later was put in charge of the instruction in zoology and geology in the Lawrence School, a position which he held until 1872. In 1873 he was appointed director of the Kentucky Geological Survey, on which he was engaged at intervals for seven years. The fruits of his observation were exhibited in several volumes of reports, entitled "Geological Survey of Kentucky" and "Memoirs of the Geological Survey of Kentucky." In 1884 he became geologist to the United States Geological Survey in charge of the Atlantic division, in which he did work of great scientific importance and value. Professor Shaler was a voluminous writer, producing in addition to his many contributions to scientific and popular magazines the following works: "Thoughts on the Nature of Intellectual Property," "Illustrations of the Earth's Surface," "Glaciers," "A First Book on Geology," "Kentucky: a Pioneer Commonwealth," "The United States of America: a Study of the American Commonwealth," "Fossil Brachiopods of the Ohio Valley," "American Highways," "Domesticated Animals, their Relation to Man," "The Individual," "Study of Life and Death," "The Neighbor," "The Citizen," etc. Professor Shaler's mind did not confine itself to one line of investigation, but exerted itself industriously in the effort to solve many widely different problems of contemporaneous human interest. Perhaps the most remarkable example of his versatility is the five volumes of "Elizabeth of England," written to show that a man of science could, if he chose, reproduce the style and manner of the Elizabethan dramatists. A book of verse is now in press, and will soon be issued by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THERE is to be a biography of one who has been called "the greatest of woman travellers"—Mrs. Isabella Bird Bishop. It is the work of her longtime friend, Anna Stoddart, the biographer of Professor Blackie.

KIPLING is writing a new series of tales under the general title of "Robin Goodfellow—his Friends." The first one is "The Centurion of the Thirtieth." Parnesius, this Roman centurion and friend of the Emperor Maximus, becomes commander of the great Roman wall running across England and defends it under dramatic circumstances. This first story of the series will appear in McClure's Magazine for May.

As far as has been announced, "My Friend Prospero" was the last of the late Henry Harland's writings. The romance on which he was working during his last sickness was never finished. Written in the same style, it was to have brought its heroine to this country instead of keeping her in Italy and England. By friends who saw it, however, the manuscript was said to reflect somewhat the conditions under which it was written and not to be as happy in its lightheartedness and grace of mood as "My Friend Prospero" and the earlier romances.

OLIVE LOGAN, well known forty years ago as an actress, lecturer on woman's rights and other social topics, author and playwright, appeared in a Harlem police court, New York City, on April 10, asking the Justice to compel her husband to contribute something to her support. Olive Logan was born in New York in 1841. In 1857 she was married to Edmund A. Delille who died in 1865. In 1872 she married William Wirt Sykes, her present husband, who was at that time appointed United States Consul at Cardiff, Wales, and changed his name to Logan. Mr. Logan is employed as watchman on Ellis Island.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE annual dinner of the Periodical Publishers' Association of America will be held on Friday evening, May 4, at the Marlborough-Blenheim, Atlantic City. Guests of the association will be conveyed to Atlantic City by special train from New York and Philadelphia on the afternoon of May 4, returning the next afternoon.

RICHARD G. BADGER, Boston, has just brought out the first number of a monthly magazine entitled Whist, which is to be devoted entirely to Whist and "Bridge." The magazine is edited by Harry H. Ward and R. F. Foster, who are assisted by seven associate editors. The first number will be a surprise to many who may have had no idea to what extent whist has really become a part of our entertainment. Among the contributions is a sketch of J. Eberhard Faber, the well-known manufacturer of lead pencils, who is the president of the American Whist League.

OLD BOOK NOTES.

S. BROWN, 8 Fairfield Road, Kingston-on-Thames, according to the London Publishers' Circular, "offers a copy of 'Robinson Crusoe' for £700 in his last catalogue. He claims it is unique, and gives a facsimile of the title-page. He calls it 'an antecedent to the first edition,' which certainly sounds 'unique.' Here is Mr. Brown's description: "'Quite recently Dr. Laidlaw Purves made the discovery among some old family books of a copy 'printed for the Booksellers of London and Westminster, 1719,' entitled 'The Life and Strange Surprising Adventures of Robeson Cruso; Mariner.'" From the distinctive spelling of the hero's name, Dr. Purves describes the work as the "O" edition. A comparison of this edition with Taylor's edition of "Robinson Crusoe" is of great interest. Dr. Purves's remarks may be taken as conclusive that this work is not, like Cox's edition, a pirated one; on the contrary, they show that the differences in the text are due to first thoughts in the "O" as corrected by Defoe's practised hand in Taylor's production. Words are altered for the better, and little inconsistencies smoothed away. The probability is that Defoe set up the copy (at the Jacobite press at which he was working clandestinely), but on finding a publisher gave up the task. The deficiencies of a small newspaper fount would account for the erratic changes in the type, and thus we get a copy anterior to the first edition. The Publishers' Circular thinks that this ought to be called the "O my!" edition by the purchaser."

AMONG the recent acquisitions in the retail department of Charles Scribner's Sons is a collection of forty-two books from the libraries of royal personages of France extending in unbroken succession from Henry II. to Napoleon III. All of these books are just in the condition in which they were when in the libraries of their royal owners, and many are very beautifully bound. Among them is a very curious volume which belonged to the mother of Henry IV. It is a book of prayers, and the morocco binding has its surface covered with ornaments emblematic of the crucifixion, the cross, the shield, the rod with the sponge, Judas, the thirty pieces of silver, the high priest, the scourge, the dice of the soldiers, and other curious emblems which fill the whole space. Another volume from the library of Marie de Medici has its sides completely covered with ovals enclosing the queen's monogram. One particularly interesting book belonged to Marguerite de Valois and is covered with ovals enclosing branches of flowers all in gold; on the front cover is her special design of three fleurs-de-lis. And there is another very curious work, strangely enough a church history, which must have been in the hands of Charles IX., the author of the massacre of St. Bartholomew. The royal arms are on the side, and it is in almost perfect preservation. The other volumes in this remarkable collection are equally unique and interesting.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHARLESTON, W. VA.—James J. Richardson, bookseller, has been succeeded by the Kanawha Bookstore.

KANKAKEE, ILL.—Joseph Cote has sold his half interest in the Kankakee Bookstore to his partner, Arthur Picard. Cote and Picard purchased the business about a year ago from W. E. Chenot.

NEW YORK CITY.—The Co-operative Book Company has been incorporated, with a capital of $10,000. The directors are: W. M. Erno, H. L. Morris and E. D. Brown, all of New York.

NEW YORK CITY.—Rutger B. Jewett has severed all connection with the firm of J. F. Taylor & Co., of 5 and 7 East Sixteenth Street, of which firm he was formerly a partner, and the partnership has now been absolutely dissolved. Mr. Jewett retired from active participation in this firm last year to become managing director of the John Lane Company, The Bodley Head, at 67 Fifth Avenue, of which company he is the vice-president.

NORFOLK, VA.—Anderson & Thompson, booksellers, have been served with a summons to show cause why they should not be thrown into involuntary bankruptcy. It is said that the firm will make a stiff fight against the proceeding.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—Arthur B. Pierson, bookseller and stationer, will remove on May 1 to a new store, at 305 Stockton Street, around the corner of his present quarters at 318 Post Street.

PERSONAL NOTES.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES SCRIBNER sailed for Europe by the Baltic on April 12.

A. L. SCHMALZRIED has severed his relations with Sanger Brothers, of Dallas, Tex., and accepted the position of manager of the book department of Miller & Rhodes at Richmond, Va., where he will be glad to see his friends on and after May 15.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE ESSEX HOUSE PRESS, 16 Brook Street, London, Eng., is publishing a translation by Hugh E. Seebohm of "The Pictures of Kebes the Theban." This is the only extant work of Kebes, the disciple of Philolaus and friend of Socrates, and was widely read in ancient and mediæval times.

THE W. A. WILDE COMPANY have in preparation a story of electrical engineering and mining, entitled "The Young Prospector," by E. J. Houston, emeritus professor of physical geography in the Boys' High School, Philadelphia, and the author of a number of scientific books and manuals for electricians.

DODD, MEAD & Co. in the advertising pages of this issue of the WEEKLY offer four prizes, ranging from $5 to $25, for the best answers, and the reasons therefor, to five questions regarding the most effective advertising of books. It is to be hoped that clerks and others will put on their thinking caps and take a lively interest in the contest.

THOMAS WHITTAKER will shortly begin issuing Whittaker's Sermon Library, consisting of volumes of sermons heretofore published, but now reprinted at reduced and popular rates. The series will comprise discourses of contemporary interest by prominent bishops and clergy. The initial volume will be "The Heresy of Cain," by the Rev. Dr. George Hodges, Dean of Cambridge.

FORMER New York Police Commissioner William McAdoo has written a book, mostly about conditions in the Police Department. The manuscript is in the hands of a publisher, and the book will be out in a few weeks. Mr. McAdoo, when interviewed as to the forthcoming book said: "I am not at liberty to discuss the book just now. It is about actual conditions in the Police Department, and is based, naturally, upon my own experience."

L. C. PAGE & COMPANY will issue this month a number of interesting juveniles, including the following titles: "Our Little Scotch Cousin," by Blanche McManus, illustrated by the author; "Alpatok," the story of an Esquimo dog, by Marshall Saunders, author of "Beautiful Joe"; "Larry Hudson's Ambition," by James Otis; also, "The Yacht Dido," a juvenile for boys, by Professor Charles G. D. Roberts, who is at present working on his important book for the year, which will be entitled "By the Waters of Fundy."

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just brought out a volume entitled "Creatures that Once were Men," by Maxim Gorky, the Russian author, who, with his wife, arrived in New York City on April 10. The translation of the book into English has been made by J. K. M. Shirazi; an introduction has been furnished by G. K. Chesterton. The story is written in the novelist's best and most characteristic vein. They have just ready the twelfth and concluding volume of "The Jewish Encyclopedia," one of the most important cyclopedic publications of the present day.

FLEMING H. REVELL COMPANY have just ready a timely book, entitled "The Secret of Heroism," the life story of Henry Albert Harper, by W. L. Mackenzie King, of the Canadian Department of Labor, who, not long since, by his personal exertions, brought the coal miners' strike at Nanaimo, B. C., to a close; a work of special interest to public speakers on "Voice Production and the Phonetics of Declamation," by Professor Newlands, of the New College, Edinburgh; also, "The Vision at the Savoy," an English novel, by Miss Winifred Graham, well known in London society circles.

GINN & Co. announce the early publication through their Trade Department at Boston of a unique contribution to the literature on outdoor life. It is called "Mountain Wild Flowers," and is written by Mrs. Julia W. Henshaw, who has in this book gathered together the results of many years' study of these fascinating flowers that bloom above the clouds. The illustrations, of which there are one hundred and one, are full-page reproductions of the original photographs taken by Mrs. Henshaw, and are pronounced by experts to be singularly successful. They are not chance photographs, but were carefully planned for artistic and scientific effect. Inasmuch as the book is intended for the general public each of the three hundred flowers described in the text is classified according to its color, and the descriptions are expressed in popular English.

T. & J. W. JOHNSON COMPANY have just ready a work on "The Creation of Corporations for Profit in Pennsylvania under the Corporation Act of April 29, 1874, and its supplements, the merger, consolidation, judicial sale and reorganization of such corporations, the domestication of foreign corporations, the practice in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth relating thereto, and a collection of forms," by John F. Whitworth. For several years Mr. Whitworth has been connected with the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and practically all matters relating in any way to corporations have been under his personal direction, thus his knowledge of the law in general, and his experience in the practical workings of the Department, have given him extraordinary opportunities for placing before the public many important points of law and many valuable suggestions covering the practice before the Department as to corporations.

JOHN W. LUCE & Co. have changed their plans for "The Foolish Book of Etiquette," and the entire book has been written anew, partly by those whose contributions enlivened the "Foolish Almanac," partly by other well-known journalists, such as Wallace Irwin, W. D. Nesbit, Nixon Waterman, D. K. Stevens, R. R. Whiting, Newton Newkirk and J. Frank Davis. Charles Towne, however, has decided not to contribute. They are preparing another ingenious volume, a companion for "All by Wire," but not requiring quite so much of the reader's co-operation to become an intelligible story. The title is "Miss Dean's Double Log," the voyage being from New York to Bar Harbor, and the time about a fortnight. The true "Log" is printed in the way customary for maritime use, is of the same shape as the ordinary ship's log-book, and contains the customary entries, with curt daily comments. The indolent may entirely neglect this if they choose, for it is interleaved with the heroine's diary, as full and minute a record as can be expected from a girl with love affairs to occupy her mind.

THE WINSTON COMPANY will send out just before Easter two new books, illustrated by Clare Victor Diggins—"The Skull Toast Book" and "The Rubaiyat of the Egg," cut out into shapes of a skull and an egg. They will also issue immediately an interesting collection of recipes compiled by two prominent Philadelphia society women, who have collected more than seven hundred of these formulas from old family "receipt books" of celebrated hostesses all over the country. The contributors number nearly two hundred, and every recipe has been in constant use for a century or more. The many historical occasions on which they have been served are mentioned in notes. A limited edition of this book has been printed and practically all subscribed for, though about two hundred will be reserved for the trade. Among other new books for issue this month are: "Woman in Girlhood-Wifedom-Motherhood," by Dr. M. Solis-Cohen; "The Double Search—Studies in Atonement and Prayer," by Rufus M. Jones; five new books for boys by Edward S. Ellis, namely, "The Cruise of the Firefly," "A Hunt on Snow-Shoes," "Lost in the Forbidden Land," "River and Jungle," and "The Hunt of the White Elephant;" also, a new book for girls, "By Love's Sweet Rule," by Gabrielle Emilie Jackson.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish shortly a new novel by John Luther Long, author of "The Darling of the Gods," etc., to be entitled "The Way of the Gods," the scene of which is laid in the beautiful land of "Madame Butterfly;" "The Vine of Sibmah," by Andrew Macphail, a story of the life of the Puritans of Old and New England about the year 1662; "The Garden, You and I," a new book by the author of "The Garden of a Commuter's Wife," in which are combined the fruits of much practical experience in home gardening, with many new ideas and the wholesome flow of good humor and keen observations; "The New Earth," by W. S. Harwood, which admirably supplements the author's former work, "New Creations in Plant Life;" "The Biology of the Frog," by Professor S. J. Holmes, of the University of Wisconsin, which aims to give a fairly complete life history of a single animal; a new and considerably enlarged edition of Professor L. H. Bailey's work on "Plant Breeding;" "Sanitary and Applied Chemistry," by Dr. E. H. S. Bailey, of the University of Kansas, which treats of chemistry as applied to everyday life; also, "Dynamic Factors in Education," by Professor M. V. O'Shea, who discusses the practical problems of educational values, methods and discipline from the point of view of contemporary functional psychology and kindred sciences.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will bring out on the 18th inst. "Between Two Masters," by Gamaliel Bradford, Jr., a delightful romance by the author of "The Private Tutor," the underlying theme of which is the struggle of a young college man to decide where he shall put the emphasis of his life—devote himself entirely to the accumulation of money, or follow other impulses that prompt him to help men rather than to rule them; "A Little Sister of Destiny," by Gelett Burgess, an ingenious story of a young American heiress who finding herself alone in the world, and being possessed with a spirit of adventure and an ambition to spend her money to the advantage of others, seeks out and befriends in true fairy-godmother style people in various walks of life which she herself enters in disguise—such as a chorus girl, cashier, artist's model, etc.; "The Personality of Jesus," by Charles H. Barrows, who in a number of stimulating and helpful chapters presents what the Four Gospels contain as to the outward appearance of Jesus; "A Short History of England's and America's Literature," by Eva March Tappan, which is the author's text-book on "England's Literature," with a supplement reviewing the history of American literature; "Language, Literature and Art," the third volume of The Proceedings of the International Congress of Arts and Science, at St. Louis, 1904; also, "Grammar and Composition," in the Webster-Cooley Language Series, prepared by W. F. Webster.

THE H. M. CALDWELL COMPANY will bring out before July "Louis' Salads and Chafing Dishes," by Louis Muckensturm, which is practically the work of three masters of the art, two of whom are chefs at the most prominent clubs in Boston, who give practical hints for young housekeepers, not only as to cooking, but also as to the care of foods, the serving of wines, etc.; "My Lady's Point of View," designed by Adrian J. Iorio, a half-memory book intended to cover as fully as possible the interesting points in a young girl's life from the time of her debut to the momentous occasion of her marriage; "My Graduation," also designed by Iorio, which is intended to take in the principal facts and interests in a girl's life at high school or college; "Over the Nuts and Wine," by James Clarence Harvey, well known to the trade and the public, who has prepared a bright, catchy little volume of original toasts and bon-mots; "Cigarettes in Fact and Fancy," by John Bain, Jr., well known for his "Tobacco in Song and Story," etc., whose new book will mingle pleasantly facts about the cigarette and its manufacture, with the best and wittiest in prose and poetry on the subject; "The Value of Love," by the late Frederic Lawrence Knowles, an anthology equal, if not superior, to its predecessors, "The Value of Friendship" and "The Value of Courage," with an introduction by the author's close friend, Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton; "The Jingle of a Jap," a book of exceptional attractiveness for younger children, written and illustrated by Clara Bell Thurston, the illustrations being reproductions in color of fascinating water color sketches; "The Wishbone Boat," by Alice C. D. Riley, a delightful story for children in their Pleasant Street Series, with illustrations by L. J. Bridgman; also, "Recollections of a Gold-Cure Graduate," by Newton Newkirk, editor of the "All Sorts" column of the Boston Post, a bright, clever and witty book for the book-tired public.

Author of "The Turn of the Road," and

THE EVASION

"This book reflects Boston as accurately as New York was mirrored in 'The House of Mirth.' But rather than merely arousing discussion, Miss Frothingham has inspired hope."—Chicago Evening Post.

"The latest human products of a Puritan heritage and a Boston environment are portrayed in this novel with very much the same sort of artistic realism that Mrs. Humphry Ward uses in her chosen field of London and English life."—Boston Globe.

"This novel has distinction, social, artistic, and moral. . . . Its social distinction is truly typical of Boston society. . . . Artistic distinction is the book's second merit. Well planned and constructed, it is yet never heavy. . . . The moral atmosphere of the book is clear and bracing."—New York Mail.

Between Two Masters

By GAMALIEL BRADFORD, Jr.

The twentieth century struggle between God and Mammon, two vital elements—one, the gay, thoughtless, self-indulgent life of the world, and the other the earnest, ideal, self-forgetful life of the spirit—forms the substance of this vivid and dramatic novel. $1.50.

Even the jaded reviewers have sat up and searched their vocabularies for new phrases, stronger, less hackneyed words to describe its originality, its freshness, its wit, humor and charm.

The Mirror.—"If it be not a classic from the start I miss my guess. It crackles with wit and it is sweet with humor. We live while reading it in the old soft light that shines in 'The Vicar of Wakefield.'"

North American.—"One of the most captivating characters given to modern fiction for many a year."

Kansas City Star.—"Most cleverly and skillfully handled. It shows the master touch of pathos; it is permeated with sparkling humor, and of its charms the greatest is simplicity."

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year; to foreign countries, $4.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1905

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published that year, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Indexes to the Publishers' Trade List Annual. The original volume contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902. This, with The Supplementary Indexes for 1903-1904, in two alphabets (1589 8vo pages, double column, nonpareil type), can be had in cloth, with thumb indexes, price $7.00. (Only a few copies remain.)

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational Catalogue

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers, 1905

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLL, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library." "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50; cloth, $3.00.

State Publications

A provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Part 1: New England States. Part 2: North Central States. Part 3: Western States and Territories. Part 4, (In preparation) Southern States. (For the complete work $10.)

Annual American Catalog, 1905

The "Annual American Catalog, 1905," contains in one alphabet the monthly lists of books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly during 1905, by author, title, subject, and series entries; also, in one (author) alphabet, the full titles, with descriptive annotations from the "Weekly Record" of The Publishers' Weekly from January 1st to December 31st, 1905. Besides these lists the volume, which is practically the first supplement to the "American Catalog" for the five years ending December 31, 1904, contains a full directory of publishers issuing books during 1905, statistics, etc.

The very latest catalog, as a rule, is the one most frequently consulted by the bookseller, hence the pronounced utility and value of this bibliography.

Octavo, containing over 700 pages, substantially bound in cloth. Price, $3.00 net. (Postage 35 cents.)

The edition is printed from type and limited.

The English Catalogue, 1905

The "English Catalogue of Books for 1905," for which we have the American sale. 8vo, may be had in cloth binding, $1.50 net. (Postage 13 cents.)

The two catalogs—American and English—are this year sold separately, not bound together in one volume.

The Annual Library Index, 1905

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to dates of Principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. 8vo, cloth binding, $3.50.

A Useful Work of Reference for Bookseller, Librarian, and the General Reader

THE ANNUAL LIBRARY INDEX contains: (1) The Index to Periodical literature for the year 1905, making the fourth annual supplement to "Poole's Index to Periodical Literature," 1897-1902; (2) An index to essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1905, making the fifth annual supplement to the new edition of Fletcher's "A. L. A. Index to General Literature," published in 1901; (3) An author index, both to periodical articles and to book-chapters; (4) A list of bibliographies issued in 1905; (5) A necrology of authors for 1905, extremely useful to catalogers; (6) An index of dates of events in 1905, furnishing a useful guide to the daily press.

FOUR IMMEDIATE SUCCESSES

ELLIS PARKER BUTLER'S

little comic masterpiece

"Pigs is Pigs"

Wherein is propounded the profound problem
When is a pig not a pig?

A week before publication a new edition of this gem of a humorous tale was put on the presses. The book has taken hold, and the demand for it in all parts of the country indicates a brilliant and well-deserved success. We do not know of a book which radiates so much good humor and laughter. Cloth. Five illustrations. 50 cents.

O. Henry's

brilliant and humorous sketches of life in a big city

THE FOUR MILLION

Like the author's previous book, "Cabbages and Kings," this latest work has made an immediate hit. Here the gifted humorist writes of the inhabitants of Manhattan Isle, and he does it in that pleasing and most entertaining way—for which he is famous. Cloth. $1.00.

Mary Stewart Cutting's

MORE STORIES OF MARRIED LIFE

The thousands of readers who remember this author's charming "Little Stories of Married Life" and "Little Stories of Courtship" will gladly welcome this new volume, which is even more delightful than her earlier books. It is proving itself a popular favorite everywhere. Cloth. Frontispiece in color. $1.25.

William Allen White's

book of mellow American humor

IN OUR TOWN

We have already told you about this book. You know the author's widespread reputation, and the great success of his "Court of Boyville," "The Real Issue," etc. This book is making a record along the same lines. Cloth. Sixteen illustrations. $1.50.

McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO., 44 East 23d Street, New York
